The appearance of Mrs. James Brown Potter at Daly's theater recalls a conversation that I had recently with a lady who is a friend of James Brown

James Brown Potter

"Jimmie Potter told me not long cobs, etc., just suit it. ago," she said, "that he was ready to take his wife back whenever she was willing to come and never ask a question. He said he had kept his home as much like it was when she was mistress of it as was possible, and he had taken pains especially to keep her room just as she had left it, so that if by any chance she should ever wish to come back she would find a welcome in the familiar things that are there. He declared that he did not care anything at all about what the world might say. A home was waiting for his wife whenever she wanted it."

There is a touch of pathos in that dec laration which is not inconsistent with the devotion that James Brown Potter always showed to his brilliant wife.

To selfish natures this declaration would seem most weak, but to those people who love only once, and then forever-and I doubt not that there are such, although they may be few-the attitude of James Brown Potter will be thoroughly understood.

Altruism sometimes reaches to the plane of heroism, and the unselfishness of this man is indeed lofty, but for all that I think it most improbable that Mrs. James Brown Potter will ever take advantage of the love that seems never to have left her and keeps a home always ready for her. - Cholly Knickerbocker in New York Recorder.

The Night Migrating Birds,

The weird, sweet, annual mystery of the night migrating birds has begun. Last night, sitting in a canoe on the lake, the listener heard for a long time the soft, aerial twitterings and calls which mean to the birds, bound on their long journey, perhaps from Canada to Florida, what "keeping hold of hands" means to human beings. "Chirp? Little one, are you there? It's a long way to Cuba, do you know, and you've never been there before." "Chirp! chirp! Here am I, I should rather say! Going to Cuba's nothing when you feel the way in your bones, and in your wings especially, and in your very pinfeathers. Chirp, chirp, twitter, twitter! Come on, mamma, we'll lead the way !" On, on, indeed!

All night long, no doubt, one might hear the soft calls and even the flutter, now and then, of tireless wings. Do the old birds know every lake and stream on their way? Possibly. They seem to follow familiar paths in all they do, and yet what almost world reaching journeys they make! This rosy pine grosbeak wintered in Russia last year; this year he will winter in Massachusetts perhaps; meantime he has made a little arctic expedition of his own, and could tell Nordenskjold and Peary all about the north pole if he only would. He has been there and considers it a small matter. This humming bird could be put into my lady's thimble, with his beak sticking out like her needle, but there is no man who has surveyed the North American continent with such a comprehensive view as his. -Boston Transcript.

The Musical Voice.

Dr. Pegg, who was once an associate of Abbe Liszt, entertains the opinion that the voices of singers may be affected by their diet. In those parts of Europe where fish is the chief article of food, there are few fine vocalists and the voice in ordinary speech there is apt to lack delicacy of timbre and also dignity. Dr. Pegg has come to the conclusion that the food most desirable for singers is of a gramnivorous kind, yet they may properly include a moderate quantity of meat in their daily repast.

He discards the idea that malt liquors give strength to the voice, though they may stimulate its action for a brief time. They had better be avoided by tones fresh and rich.

The smoking habit is not necessarily injurious to the voice, if the indulgence in it be well restrained and temperate. Dr. Pegg has no patience with those French composers professing to be symbolists who would mingle with music the "potent spirit of perfume." The ancient Romans believed that in perfume there was a subtle power to create emotion, but it ought not to be used in combination with music to intensify an artistic impression. The music alone should be all powerful.

An Adroit Teacher. Consideration for others is not always rewarded in this world, howsoever it may be in the next. The Nashua (N. H.) school board wished to get rid of a teacher for what was, to it, incompetence, but in order not to interfere with the teacher's prospects elsewhere the board committee agreed to elect her, provided she would resign at once. She was elected, did resign, but before acceptance by the board she withdrew her resignation and substituted a request to be relieved of certain work, which the board refused to grant, and thereby rather estopped itself from demanding her resignation. This young woman may not be a very good teacher, but she is a capital politician. -Boston Traveller.

Kissing Hygienically Unhealthy.

In Hungary it used to be customary for children to kiss the hands of their teachers on arriving and on leaving school. This practice has, however, recently been forbidden by the board of education, because it is held by the sanitary council that kissing is a dangerous proceeding from a hygienic point of view, and should only be resorted to when absolutely necessary.

That it is unnecessary in this particular case will be granted by most people. but still it is to be feared that whatever terrors in the way of infection and disease may lurk in a kiss, where Capid holds sway, boards of education and even acts of parliament will be power-less to abolish it.—flome Notes.

But the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft aglee and Joseph Clay Stiles Blackburn will find again that it wont do to tempt fate too much. The silver business and Joseph are as dead as door nails, and for these blessings, let us give thanks.

SENATOR QUAY, of Pennsylvania, is at its head. Col. New is said to be for him with Harrison at the head and others with McKinley and so on. There seems to be a considerable divergence of opinion as to the proper man to head the ticket, but all seem to agree that Gov. Bradley shall fly as tail to the kite. There is no republican in the world whom we had rather see nominated than he, and none whom we would rather see elected if a republican is destined for that honor-Gov. Bradley has fought valiantly for every inch of ground that he has won and demonstrated that he is no ordinary individual, but a born leader of man and a man of affairs.

WHEN fortune smiles all the world stands ready to do the recipient honor, while nobody cares for the man who gets left. Gov.-elect Bradley received over 1,000 congratulatory telegrams, but if anybody thought to send or say a word of consolation and comfort to poor Watt Hardin, the fact does not appear of record. But come to think of it he doesn't deserve either. He staked his fate on a 50-cent dollar and lost. Henceforth his name is Dennis. Let his fate be a warning to others who imagine themselves bigger than their party.

MR. JOHN W. YERKES announces positively that he will not be a candidate for United States Senator. He doubtless thinks all to gain and nothing to lose by the he has a deader sure thing in running for Congress in this district and he will represent it at Washington, unless there is a big change from Tuesday's vote. The district would have gone republican in 1894 had any other democrat run except Gov. McCreary.

W. B. Hudson, aware of the fact that the "come-to-stay" papers at Barbourville petered out "pretty quick already," has launched on the journalistic sea a journal, which he calls the Experiment. He doesn't claim the earth, nor make promises he can not perform, and his modesty ought to be rewarded with a big subscription list and plenty of good paying "ads."

BLACKBURN said in Washington several months ago that either he or a republican would be the next Senator from Kentucky and in view of all the facts, a large majority of people, good democrats too, would prefer the fulfillment of the latter part of his prophecy.

THERE is one consolation left us in these days of darkness and defeat. The Kentucky Senate is democratic by a good margin, and Col. Bradley can not put a single man into an office of importance without its consent, nor can the republicans pass a law or repeal one without its co-operation. Neither] can they gerrymander the State, nor do any other devsaid to have put up a considerable part ilment, which they would attempt, but of the sinews of war for Gov. Bradley for this fortunate restraint. Mr. Jones' friends speak of him in the highest terms and say that he is far from being guilty of the foolish habit of carrying concealed weapons, and we cheerfully give him the benefit of this statement.

HANDSOMS and brainy John W. Yerkes was here vesterday and on being asked why he did not enter the scramble for U. S. Senate, he said: "I do not suppose sors. It will be seen that the official count as given above varies from our report in last issue but one vote. We gave Col, Judge Saufley certified to the governor Bradley 99 majority when it should be

For governor Pettit got only 9 votes and Demaree 133.

In the race for railroad commissioner Alexander received 1,427 votes and Irwin 1,597, majority 170 for Irwin.

For lieutenant governor R. T. Tyler received 1,443 votes, Worthington 1,579, Blair 18 and Hughes 108. The rest of the respective tickets ran about that way throughout. The official returns from Boyle show that Bradley's majority is only 157, instead of 186 as reported. W. J. Price had no opposition for circuit clerk but received the full vote, while John B. Nichols for county clerk beat the pop candidate 1,155.

The reason that Hardin has more votes than the rest of the ticket is because ballots marked under the rooster and in the square opposite his name were only counted for him, when it was the evident intention of the voter to include the whole democratic ticket, and according to learned lawyers, ought to have been so counted. A good many republican ballots were stamped under the cabin and in Bradley's square and they were

He Took Her Back.

A witty and popular London clergyman has had an unpleasant experience. One Sunday recently he was going up the steps of his church when he was asked by an old lady (who of course did not know him) to help her up the steps. With his usual good grace he complied with her request. On reaching the top she asked him who was to preach.

"The Rev. Mr. Jelf," replied he (that being his own name). "O Lor," exclaimed the old lady, "help me down again! I'd rather listen to a man sharpening a saw. Please help me down again. I don't care to go in." At first he was inclined to refuse, but then he gently helped her down again, remarking as he reached the bottom,

A Gentle Criticism.

While it may seem presumptuous on the part of a weekly paper to criticise a dramatic company that claims to carry three carloads of scenery, still we must venture to remark that the grand transformation scene in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," as given at our opera house last night by the Barns Tormer Dramatic company, would be much more effective if the life size angels which appear in the background would refrain from chewing gum.-Plunkville

How many young men and young women are cut off just as the future seems brightest and fullest of promise! They are taken away by the disease which causes one sixth of all the deaths in the world—the disease which doctors call consumption. There is absolutely no reason in the world why consumption should be fatal—why it should be even serious. It is a disease of the blood, and can be cured anselutely and always by purifying and enriching the blood. The only exception to this is the case where the disease has been neglected and improperly treated until it is stronger than the body—until the bedy has become so weak as to have lost the ability to recuperate. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure 98 per ce t. of all cases of consumption if used according to directions. It also cures all lingering coughs, brouchial and throat affections. Send 21 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y. and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page Common Sense Medical Adviser illustrated.
